Truck Crowds Car Off Highway Thursday

While returning home from a trip to the city on Thursday evening last, Mr. W. Bolduc, and three passengers with him in his Packard, was crowded off the road by a truck being driven westward near Cooking Lake on Highway 14.

The truck was on the wrong side of the road when rounding one of the many curves in the highway, and Mr. Bolduc was forced into a steep ditch at that point, with the result that the car rolled over. Happily only a bad shaking up and body bruises were sustained by the occupants of the car, who are somewhat stiffened up by their experience. The driver of the truck did not stop.

On Monday last Mr. and Mrs. Steve Bowerman celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary, and in passing along the congratulations of their large circle of friends and acquaintances, the hope is expressed that they may enjoy very many more annuals.

Local Legion Will Honor Sacred Dead

The public is cordially invited to attend the Remembrance Day services sponsored by the local branch of the Canadian Legion, which is to be held in the Elite Theatre tomorrow (Thursday) morning at 11:00 a.m.; medals and decorations to be worn.

A parade of veterans of the first Great War, veterans of the present war, members of the armed services, sea cadets, etc., will line up at the Town Hall at 10:45 hours, and proceed to the memorial clock tower where a two-minute silence will be observed.

Following this, all will march to the theatre, where Rev. A. D. Richard, B.A., will be in charge of the sacred service, assisted by the clergy of all other denominations.

Attend this service to honor our dead heroes, and to respect all who are fighting in the present great struggle. Wear a poppy for the disabled veterans who still suffer from their wounds in the first Great War; they still need all your assistance.

NO FIRES ON C.N.R.

Montreal—Not a single fire was reported during Fire Prevention Week on any property of the Canadian National Railways throughout Canada," states H. C. Carrington, insurance commissioner for the system.

Pretty Wedding Held Wain. Ang. Church

At an evening service last Tuesday, the wedding was solemnized in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, of Miss Eileen Doreen Graham, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Graham, and Capt. Arnold Frederick Hare, R.C.A. M.C., son of Mrs. A. N. Hare of Oshawa, Ont. Hon. Capt. the Rev. L. A. Brabant performed the ceremony. The chancel of the church was decorated with sprays of white and yellow chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a toe length gown of white moire fashioned with full skirt and fitted bodice. A fitted jacket, embroidered in tulle, fastened with tiny self-covered buttons. Her veil was caught to a wreath of white baby's breath and she carried a bouquet of red Delight roses and white baby's breath. A double strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom, completed her ensemble.

Miss Eugenie Williams of Edmonton was bridesmaid, wearing a floor-length gown of hyacinth blue taffeta with touches of mulberry velvet, and a turban and accessories in mulberry. She carried a bouquet of Lestra Hibbards roses.

Best man was G. H. Faulkner of Regina, and H. Smart ushered guests to pews marked with clusters of yellow 'mums and white ribbon.

During the ceremony Miss Maxine Dickson sang "O Perfect Love," accompanied by Mrs. R. Greer, who also played the wedding marches.

After the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Graham and Mrs. A. Woodger, grandmother of the bride, received with the wedding party. Mrs. Graham wore a street-length gown of turquoise crepe and chiffon with navy accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses and button 'mums. Mrs. Woodger was gowned in King's blue with black accessories. A corsage of Johanna Hill roses completed her ensemble.

The bride's table, set with a hand-made lace cloth, was centered with a three tiered wedding cake and decorated with sweetheart roses in crystal bud vases and tall white tapers in crystal candelabra. Mrs. Woodger presided at the table and the servers were Miss Jocelyn Winter, Miss Dolores Glass, Miss Maxine Dickson and Miss Regina Wilson.

F. Pointon proposed the toast to the bride.

During the evening Mrs. A. T. Gray sang "If Flowers Could Speak." Leaving on their wedding trip to Oshawa and Toronto, the bride changed to a navy dressmaker suit, primrose blouse, and a topcoat of contrasting blue, collared in fox.

Capt. Hare received his degree in medicine from Queen's University.

Out-of-town guests included Miss Eugenie Williams, Miss Maxine Dickson and Miss Regina Wilson of Edmonton, and Grant H. Faulkner of Regina, Sask.

Local Victory Loan Reaches 110 Per Cent

For the fifth time in as many campaigns, Wainwright-Irma district citizens have demonstrated that they are behind every effort of the government to "Speed the Victory."

In the Victory Loan drive which closed officially on Saturday evening last, subscriptions well topped the quota of $140,000 which had been set for this district, and the figures at the close of business on that day (despite belated returns which gave the total organizer, Mr. Alec Adams, a headache at times) read $152,830.00.

Since that time, more returns have come in to the office, keeping the secretary (Mrs. R. Bond) real busy trying to make up a final figure of the total subscribed here. At the time of going to press, the amount is approximately $155,000, which is something better than 110 per cent of the quota, and this again proves that when we all put our "shoulder to the wheel" the turning becomes much easier and the objective (and more) can be reached.

Congratulations are due all round!

Discuss Program Fuel Rationing

Gasoline rationing for 1944 is on the program for a conference of regional officers to be held in Toronto this week. There the situation will be considered by officials from all parts of the dominion who have a first-hand knowledge of conditions.

The gasoline ration has occupied the close attention of the Alberta Motor Association and officials are planning to give immediate consideration and publicity to any results of the conference that are made known.

Some months ago there was a rumor circulated in the east as to a likelihood of the basic ration unit of three gallons being reduced. Officials of the Canadian Automobile Association have expressed the view that this is unlikely, unless there is a bad turn in the war situation, making for their restrictions in the fuel supply for civilian use unavoidable.

Alberta is the biggest oil producing province in Canada. It is anxious to give all-out support to the war effort. In any change in gasoline rationing, the proximity of the oil fields of the province should be duly recognized, and car users in the province should not be penalized.

REGAINS FREEDOM

F/L Gilbert (Micky) Middlemass, R.C.A.F., who has been a prisoner of war since November last "somewhere in Europe," is now reported as having (with a number of others) made a successful escape from an internment camp in Italy. Word of this was received by his parents in town on Monday.

Guest-of-Honor Party For Bride Elect

On Friday evening, October 29th, Miss Eileen Graham was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower, held at the home of Mrs. A. T. Gray, Fourth Avenue, Wainwright. As Miss Graham's fiancé, Capt. Hare, is attached to the army, the gifts were presented to her in true army fashion in an improvised kit bag. The evening was spent in appropriate games and contests, and a dainty lunch was served. Assisting Mrs. Gray with refreshments were Mrs. R. Greer and Miss Jocelyn Winter.

Enjoyable Concert Given at Army Camp

On Tuesday of last week, a most pleasant evening's entertainment was given to a full audience at the recreational centre in the Buffalo Army Camp in the park, when a number of town artists put on a splendid concert arranged by Mr. B. Garrity, the recreational superintendent.

The offerings of those taking part were all applauded to the echo and the encores which were demanded in every instance being generously accorded.

Mr. Garrity acted as chairman for the evening, and among the accompanists at the piano were Mrs. W. Clark, Mrs. J. Telford, Mrs. G. Glass, Miss S. Mackenzie, Miss L. Wilson.

At the close of the programme, the commanding officer of the camp (Maj. W. H. Hunt) spoke a few words of commendation and thanks to those who had assisted, and expressed his personal appreciation at everything that had been done by the citizens to make the training period while here more pleasant for the soldier boys.

District Board of Trade Discuss Matters of Interest

The regular meeting of the Wainwright and District Board of Trade was held in the Dining Room of the Wainwright Hotel, being their first dinner meeting since December last year.

Mr. L. W. Smith, president of the Board, was in the chair with 28 members present. Messrs. Delameter and Sorensen were introduced to the meeting.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Smith spoke with reference to the matter of locating a dentist, and informed the meeting that Dr. Ross had decided to locate in Wainwright, and was now ready to set up his dental office in the building to be vacated by the Canadian Legion canteen.

The committee delegated to attend the Chauvin Board of Trade banquet reported that owing to road conditions, etc., they were unable to attend, and on motion of Messrs. Koch and Carsell, the Secretary was instructed to write the said Board of Trade that the representatives of this body regret that they were unable to attend their gathering of October 13th owing to weather conditions.

In discussion of the Hostess house, the president advised that an amount of $250 had been received from the Town of Wainwright and that the minutes showed that the sum of $50 had been voted by the Board of Trade and that $150 had been received from the Canadian Legion. Mr. Huntingford stated that in three weeks (with good luck) this building should be ready for use; that a riding mare had been donated.

In the matter of paying for purchases in the way of material, etc., it was moved by Messrs. Hunting-

RAIL CHIEF LENDS AID FOR CHRISTMAS PARCELS

Montreal—Assembly line methods have been adopted in packing parcels to bring Christmas cheer to men of the Canadian National Railways now overseas, all of whom are being remembered by the Canadian National Railways Employees' War Services Associations. Recently, R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president of the Railways, accompanied by Mrs. Vaughan, visited the local clubrooms where parcels were being prepared for one group of the 14,000 System men in the Canadian Army. They saw the cartons move along a line, each worker adding three articles, so that all boxes contained the same materials, and were packed in an efficient identical manner.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Chynoweth announce the engagement of their daughter Ruby Alberta to Mr. Thomas Ogilvy Rattray, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Rattray of Wainwright. The wedding will take place November 24th in the United church, Wainwright.

ford and Miller that the funds of $250, being amount from the Town of Wainwright and $50 from the Wainwright and District Board of Trade be passed on by cheque to the Hostess House Committee—Carried.

The Wainwright-Irma 5th Victory Loan quota of $140,000 was discussed the president pointing out that although he felt confident we would "go over the top," a lot of hard work still had to be done in the next three days and he urged every member of the Board to do a little missionary work.

The matters of Wainwright Town proposed Gas Franchise and the grading of Highway No. 14 were touched on, and the members decided that these matters were in good hands.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO LOCAL RATION BOARDS

Edmonton—Describing Local Ration Boards as centres of community effort to meet local problems in rationing, G. T. Williams, of Montreal, stated here that their swift service to communities is invaluable and that as volunteers they save the country tremendous sums of money for the war effort.

Throughout this district farmers have been greatly assisted in obtaining additional rations for transient labour from this Board during the harvest season; this being one major feature among their many duties.

RATION TRADE BAN IS LIFTED

Ottawa—Mrs. Jones can now borrow extra rations from Mrs. Smith, in a pinch, since the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has lifted the ban on exchange of rationed commodities across the back fence.

"There was no intention at any time to restrict neighboring practices such as loans and exchanges of rationed commodities in small quantities, and no steps were taken to restrict these. But under terms of the ration order when loans, gifts or such exchange were prohibited it was considered necessary in order to minimize deliberate abuses," a Board spokesman pointed out.

THROUGH OTHER EYES

Let us put it this way: If, without any preliminary build-up or discussion, our whole safe, comfortable, ordered way of life should in a moment slip away from us—if, overnight, we should find that we had changed places with a citizen of Poland or of one of the beleaguered towns of Russia, would we then, if we could remember our own past effort, feel quite satisfied that we had done all that anyone could reasonably ask of us in this war? Would we not be shamed, remembering our own complacent thinking: "Well, I did pretty well in subscribing to the last loan, I can afford to coast with this one and let the other fellow do it?"

Or, if our government could suddenly pass a law that would bring all those sons of Canada now fighting overseas back to the safety of home, and if, by the same law, they could put some of us in their places, perhaps we might come to revise our thinking.

All very fanciful, no doubt, but if we could think of ourselves in those terms, not warm and comfortable and safe, but facing the dangers and the difficulties, the discomforts and the stark horror of war, would we be quite so sure that some one who had taken our comfortable place was doing his full share if he stopped short of the very ultimate of the things he could do to give us our chance for life?

But most of us can't have the chance to look at our obligations through eyes grown familiar with the bitter tragedy of war. We have to look at them through everyday eyes that are used to familiar, friendly, intimate things that are far indeed from violence and destruction. From that viewpoint it may look as if Canadians have done rather well. People, important people, have told us so and they have meant it. But they haven't meant that we can stop now. They haven't meant we should now be free to use our dollars for our own devices.

What would the fellow from Poland think, or the boy from the beaches of Salerno? Our bet is that they would be thinking about the same thing: "Now—now is the time." For the first time we are realizing in actual experience how vicious, how desperate, how determined he is. He has to win now. Not later, but now. He has everything to gain by desperate thrusts. He will take the chances, and he may win, for the time at least, unless we are ready for him. Don't dream that he won't try. As this is written, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., of the United States Treasury Department is challenging Allied complacency in startling words, "Sicily," he said, "was merely an outpost of the Fortress of Europe, but that attack cost the Allied material losses ranging up to 54 percent, to say nothing of the cost in lives." What will it be now that the real assault has begun?
If Sicily cost us 54 percent, Italy will cost us more; and other fronts more again. That is where we come in. We can forget what we have done in the past, and in this crucial hour give as if it were our first chance.

CANADA'S SEAMY SIDE

Those who never believed we really could be a nation are saying that the strains of war are causing Canada to give up the seams. The well-known seams, of course, are those north and south areas where our east and west Dominion is stitched together. There is a big seam of mountains between the empire of British Columbia and the Prairies. Then there is another seam, made partly by the upper Great Lakes and partly by rocks and hillsides and muskeg, between the Prairies and Ontario. Rock, bush, water and the state of Maine make up another seam between Quebec and the Maritimes. Except for the curved thread of the Ottawa river, the seam between Quebec and Ontario doesn't show on the map—perhaps because the stitching that was supposed to hold these provinces together got pulled out long ago.

There are many smaller seams.
Some of these divide the provinces of the Maritimes from each other, as anyone in these provinces can find and would like to tell people from Canada and the Prairies are similarly tired of being lumped together by outsiders.
Alberta, for instance, enjoys speaking of Manitoba, with a chuckle as being an "Eastern" province.

Inside the provinces themselves

there are other seams, some of them clearly seen on the map. British Columbia did such a fine job of building the biggest mountains to keep out the cold, tired people from the rest of the country that even the native-born have difficulty in getting around to visit each other in their own provinces.
One of the few east and west seams, formed by Georgian Bay and the highlands of Muskoka, makes separate territories of Northern Ontario and the remote Old Ontario.

Most provinces also have a seam running around their largest city.
Vancouver is a patch of an altogether different color from the rest of B.C.
Winnipeg is just barely in Manitoba at all. Ottawa is entirely surrounded by a seam of red tape. Toronto—well everybody knows about Toronto. At Campbellton they say St. John gets all the preferment. An exception is that Quebecers think Montreal is all right, but that merely proves Quebec really is different.

The theory of the seams that are supposed to be giving under the strain of war can be carried as far as anyone may care to read. How about the divisions of districts in your own town? There are differing viewpoints even among people who live on the same side of the tracks. In one town there was an argument about who should be head of the Red Cross! And there are known cases of members of the same family bickering with each other.

If we let this country fall apart because we don't all agree about everything we shall end with every citizen in his own foxhole. What we need is another dozen million people to sit on some of the seams, and help hold them down.

We also need to take half an hour off, even in the midst of the war, and have a good laugh at ourselves for the mean-minded, cussed critters that we are, and thus kill off a lot of this "small town" stuff!

Canadian Pacific Women Fill Enlisted Men's Places

Invading such predominantly masculine strongholds as locomotive shops and maintenance of way gangs, women have been helping to take up part of the slack caused by the enlistment of 16,285 men in the active armed forces from the Canadian Pacific Railway. At the first of September this year there were 675 women employed by the Canadian Pacific in positions normally filled by men.

This layout shows some of the women at work. Giving the final touches to the top of a locomotive in the roundhouse at Sudbury, Ont., are Olive Kennedy cleaning up the number plate and Jennie Nell doing some other cleaning.

Smiling Vivian Constant, at the phone and silhouetted against the engine crew call board, is called "boy" for 77 crews in the locomotive shops at North Bay, Ont., while Mary Lemieux, pictured chalking up directions as a car checker, also works in North Bay where her father, Joe Lemieux, is a Canadian Pacific trainman.

Father-daughter combinations are not unusual now as demonstrated by the railroading Sauves of Sudbury in the picture where Fred Sauve, company boiler-maker, sees how close he can come to his daughter, Lucille Sauve, an engine wiper, with a bit of grease. The list of women doing men's jobs shows there are 294 on eastern lines and 171 in the West in the mechanical and operating departments while the communications department is using 210 girls as telegraph messengers.

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa

Written quickly for the weekly newspapers of Canada

Capital gossip: Like President Roosevelt's dog "Fala", the Governor General's pet bull terrier "Bronx" is an Ottawa prominent. Recently when the Earl of Athlone was touring the west, "Bronx" left home and was listed among the missing. "Blackout" last September to conserve power, the Board of Control has asked the Department of Public Works to relight all the white way lamps in Ottawa's business section, also along the Federal District driveways. — Ottawa jewellers report business better than could be expected in a place where girls outnumbered men five to one; because of a revival of the old custom of brides ringing the fingers of bridegrooms. — Total registration at public schools in Ottawa for month of September was 8,712, which doesn't seem much in proportion to total population.

Most stocks of food held in Canada as of October 1, 1943, were considerably lower as compared with the same date a year ago, with the exception of meat—both Canadian and imported. For instance: cold storage eggs on hand were less than half a million dozen as compared with 6.8 million dozen last year; cheese held by warehouses and dairy factories, 56,594,416 pounds, less by sixteen millions; meats amounted to 67,408,837 pounds, over 20 million more than on the same date last year. But the figures were mostly up from the month preceding by considerable, as take poultry (dressed) with over 4 million pounds, as against 2.5 million the month before.

For some time now the authorities have been stressing the serious housing shortage in St. John's, Nfld., as a warning to troops who may be posted in the area to dissuade relatives from joining them there unless they have secured a place to live in beforehand. The population has increased from 30,000 to 50,000, and at times new arrivals have had to be sheltered in the city jail. Who says that would be a nice welcome for mother and the kids?

Canada has hit the lowest figure in maternal mortality rate to date, with 2.9 per 1000 live births, the Director of Maternal and Child Hygiene, Department of Pensions and National Health, told a convention in Toronto. A steady decrease has been shown since 1936 when the rate was 5.6 per 1,000 live births. This is very encouraging, considering the stresses and strains of war.

Another instance of the war forcing us to overcome our own difficulties: In rotary oil drilling operations in Saskatchewan they had used as a drilling mud, "bentonite", now hard to obtain from the States. A University of Saskatchewan professor, W. G. Worcester, developed the use of a substitute clay found in large quantities around Estevan, nearby to the Blenheim lignite coal fields, and they are using about 50 tons a week in drilling operations now.

The autumn bazaar season is upon us all through the "byways and byways" of Canada. Church groups have been busy planning their booths with one eye on the conservation and the other on the returns. Aprons, colourful as ever, will likely be made from house-dresses that have shrunk or split at the shoulders. Some enterprising women will make them from sheets and bind them with gay prints. With delicate shades of wool not so easy to get, the garments in the baby booth will be made from re-worked material and you'll never know it from the brand new, so expertly can it be unravelled and laundered. Of course with preserves rationed, they will no longer appear among the delectable array of home-cooked goods. No preserves may be bought without surrendering a ration coupon; and no sales of any rationed commodities between consumers are permitted. (This is our weekly women's item from Thelma Craig of the Consumers Branch, W.T.P.T.B., Ottawa.)

People oft-times get curious about Canada's takings at the cash register. Well, here are a few interesting facts. Our national revenue for six months from April 1, 1943, to September 30, 1943, amounted to $1,292,546,908, an increase of some $223 million over the same period last year. Our pay-out was $2,187,122,226, up $170 millions. How do we get this revenue dough? Well, custom import duties accounted for about $81 million; excise duties another $67 million; income tax and excess profits nearly $796 million; post office department over $36 million, etc. Our war expenditure in that period was $1,034,458,052 alone. Some dough—coming and going.

The fact that Italy declared war against Germany now will have little effect upon the situation in Canada respecting enemy aliens, it is noted, because scarcely half a dozen Italian nationals are interned in the Dominion at present. The Canadian government, Prime Minister King said, is in general agreement with the governments of the U.K., U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. in their announcement with respect to the declaration.

Agriculture Department notes: — Mainly because honey in northern countries is gathered from clovers, it is more wholesome for wintering bees than honey from the south. Dan. delion honey has proved fatal to bees. Honey from hard maple or from pure alfalfa, and honey from white golden rod, granulates so hard in the combs that wintering bees are unable to use it. — Weight of grain in a bin? Sure, just first find out the cubical contents (by multiplying the length by the depth by the breadth), and the weight of one bushel of the particular grain (32 quarts). As one cubic foot measures almost 25 quarts, the weight of one cubic foot will be 25/32 of the weight of one bushel. Thus one bushel oats weighs 34 pounds. One cubic foot of oats equals 25/32 of 34

000. Manitoba with a population of 730,000 has 155,000 permit holders. Ontario allowance of spirits is 40 ounces monthly, B.C.'s only 15 ounces monthly, or 30% pounds.

The OTTAWA JOURNAL publishes some interesting figures in connection with wartime restrictions on the sale of alcoholic beverages, saying it is estimated unofficially that there are 750,000 permit holders in Ontario—only about 150,000 more than in British Columbia, although the population of Ontario is about 3,787,000 compared with B.C.'s 2,118,000.

The trend of economic conditions in Canada averaged higher in the first eight months of 1943 than in the same period in the preceding year. The index of the physical volume of business based on five main components showed a gain of 17.6 per cent. Manufacturing increase was 23.5 per cent; Mineral production, 24 per cent construction slipped with $142 millions as against $109 millions; whole sale and retail sales recorded gains of 7.3 and 5 per cent, respectively. Our external trade, reflecting heavy production and flow of war materials showed a gain of 27 per cent. Due to scarcity of additional manpower, the number of persons employed in productive enterprise showed only a moderate gain, the general index of employment a gain of 7.5 per cent.

Canned vegetables frozen in packages and wholesalers' hands last July will be showing on your shelves soon with the movement to retail outlets through the new system of "controlled distribution" recently announced

THE FUNDS of the depositor are the first concern of Canada's Chartered Banks.

Canada's Chartered Banks are the proud custodians of more than 4,350,000 savings deposit accounts. These accounts, averaging $391, represent the work and thrift of you and your neighbours—of heads of businesses and heads of families.

Naturally, the first concern of these depositors is that their money, or any part of it, shall be available when called for. That is the banks' first concern, too.

The Bank Act specifies the types of transactions in which the Chartered Banks of Canada may engage. But it is the banks' responsibility to analyze the assets and prospects of the intending borrower. They must be such as would satisfy you if you were asked to lend your money.

Funds deposited with the Chartered Banks form the basis for loans to individuals, businesses, institutions and Government. Your savings thus help to sustain business activity and the general welfare of the nation.

ADVERTISING

(A MESSAGE TO LOCAL MERCHANTS)

It is difficult for us to conceive of any single force which wields so great an influence in our life as advertising — yet, how many people stop to consider what advertising really is.

Advertising is any means or method of communication of essential information as to where, when and how a commodity or service may be obtained — and WHY IT IS DESIRABLE.

Before people will buy, they must be "sold." They must make up their mind that they want the goods or service more than any other product their money will buy — more than they want to keep the money.

But how can a person find this magic formula of convincing prospects "WHY IT IS DESIRABLE"?

The answer lies in the product or service itself —

Why do people buy your product now?
How do they use it?
What does it do for them?
Where do they use it?
When do they use it?
How often do they use it?

Take a pencil and write down the answers to these questions. Study your answers and you'll have the basis on which to build your advertising message.

Then your next job is to tell them "Why it is desirable" from their point of view. Remember, they are interested in their own wants and needs—not in a lot of adjectives making boastful claims. The public doesn't care how big your firm is or how old it is — they are interested in themselves, their health, their happiness, their family and their own beliefs.

Fix this thought in your mind: "WHY IT IS DESIRABLE FROM THEIR POINT OF VIEW" — and you will achieve success in your advertising.

Your local newspaper has proven that it is the most desirable medium for many sales messages — what about yours?

Hints for the Household

The following baked dishes are sufficiently high in food value to be used as main-course dishes. Bread crumbs furnish you with valuable carbohydrates and proteins; salmon and Lima beans with proteins; butter with fat; while the tomatoes, lemon juice and green peas take care of the minerals and vitamins. Best of all, the dishes are good as well as being good for you.

Hot Salmon Salad

2/3 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup milk
1 large can salmon (2 cups)
4 tablespoons mayonnaise
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup cooked peas
1 tablespoon melted butter
Soak 1/2 cup bread crumbs in milk about 10 minutes, reserving remaining bread crumbs for top. Mix salmon mayonnaise, lemon juice and salt. Add soaked bread crumbs, then mix in peas lightly. Spread in greased casserole dish. Top with remaining dry bread crumbs mixed with melted butter. Bake in moderate oven at 375 deg. F. about 30 minutes, or until crumbs are lightly browned. Serves 6.

Escalloped Corn, Lima Beans and

Tomatoes
2 cups cooked corn, cut from cob
1/2 cup cooked Lima beans
2 cups sliced tomatoes
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 cup dry bread crumbs
3 tablespoons melted butter
Mix 2 tablespoons bread crumbs with 1 tablespoon melted butter and set aside. Mix remaining ingredients, pour into buttered baking dish. Sprinkle bread crumbs on top and bake in moderate oven, 375 deg. F., for 45 minutes. Serves 6.

IMPROVING GRANNY'S RECIPES
Here are two recipes for those rennet-custards of grandma's day, with added touches that certainly improve them. Made without eggs, without baking, without boiling—what could be easier!

Chocolate Delight

1 pkt. chocolate rennet powder
1 pint milk
4 or 5 marshmallows
Blackberry jam
Make rennet-custard dessert according to directions on package. Chill in refrigerator. When ready to serve, cut marshmallows in eights from one side almost to the other. Open like a flower and place on top of each dessert. In the centre of each flower put a teaspoon of blackberry jam.

Ginger Way

1 rennet tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
1 pint milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup whipping cream
Ginger cookies (or ginger snaps)
Preserved ginger
Break a small ginger cookie or ginger snap into each dessert dish. Dissolve rennet tablet in 1 tablespoon cold water. Warm milk, sugar and vanilla to lukewarm, not hot. Remove from stove. Add dissolved tablet. Stir a few seconds and pour at once over ginger cookies. Let set until firm—about 10 minutes.
Chill in refrigerator. Serve with whipped cream and a bit of grated preserved ginger.

SANDWICHES FOR ALL TIMES

Sandwiches are what we make them. They may be make-shift bites, with little to be said in their favor, or dainty morsels that bring bursts of praise to the hostess whenever they are placed before guests.

It is far too easy to put a piece of ham or cheese between two slices of bread and call it a sandwich. We are likely to get into this food rut if we do not watch ourselves.

Combination sandwich fillings can be cultivated. Instead of using plain cheese, use a combination of cheese and mustard pickles. As a matter of fact, the pickle shelf can be used the whole year round to build up attractive sandwiches for the lunch box. For a buffet lunch, various kinds of pickles may be placed near the sandwich tray.

Here are several recipes showing how pickles of various kinds may be used in sandwiches.

Spicy Celery Sandwich

2 large sweet pickles (1/4 cup)
1/4 cup celery, finely cut
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
2 teaspoons catsup
Combine chopped sweet pickles and celery. Blend with remaining ingredients. Spread this filling on slices of buttered bread.

Hot Ham Sandwich

Have ready hot buttered toast, two slices for each sandwich, and lightly broiled sliced ham cut very thin. Arrange a slice of the ham on a slice of the toast. Add a bit of prepared mustard and cover with minced sweet pickles. Put the top slice of toast in place. Serve at once.

Bacon and Pickle Sandwich

6 slices crisply broiled bacon, chop
3 medium dill pickles, chopped
1/4 cup mayonnaise
Combine bacon, pickles, and mayonnaise. Spread on buttered bread. Makes 6 sandwiches 4 x 4 inches.

Savory Minced Cheese Sandwich

1/2 pound American cheese
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon sauce of mustard pickle
1/4 cup mustard pickles, chopped
Salt
Paprika
Allow cheese to stand in warm place to soften. Mash the cheese and blend with butter. Add remaining ingredients. Spread on thinly sliced whole wheat or rye bread, buttered.

World of Wheat

H. G. L. Strange,
Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

WRONG VARIETIES OF WHEAT

The "Crop Testing Plan" is now analyzing the results of this autumn's growing tests of thousands of wheat samples, each sample representing a farmer's growing field of wheat. Owing to the shortage of labor, tests this year were made only of samples from those areas which in the past have shown a high percentage of bad mixtures.

The first thing that strikes one looking over the tests is to note the large numbers of farmers who actually were growing a variety of wheat which was entirely different from the variety they thought they were producing. Many farmers, for instance, who thought they were growing Red Bobs—an early variety—were actually found to be producing Marquis—which is a much later variety. Because of this lateness many of such crops no doubt this year were caught by frost.

The tests show, too, that many farmers who thought they were growing rust-resistant wheat, either Thatcher, Apex, Renown or Regent, actually were growing a variety susceptible to rust, such as Red Bobs, Marquis or Canus. Here, of course, the farmer would lose much money in a rust year. It does seem important, therefore, if farmers wish to make the full amount of money that their hard work deserves, that they should be absolutely certain that the seed they sow really is of the variety they wish to grow.

FARM NOTES

CAREFUL PREPARATION IN WINTERING BEES

The principal loss in beekeeping is through poor wintering. While winter losses cannot be completely avoided, they can be reduced by using greater care in the preparation of colonies for winter.

The three chief essentials for successful wintering are: 1. Strong colonies of young bees, 2. An adequate supply of honey or sugar syrup and pollen, 3. Ample protection.

The first requires a vigorous queen that will produce a large number of young bees in the early fall. Do not attempt to winter over weak colonies but unite them with colonies of medium strength as soon as possible.

The second, food, may be supplied either by leaving honey from the crop or by feeding the bees with an equal amount of sugar made into a syrup of two parts sugar to one part water. If honey is left for winter only the best quality of clover or buckwheat should be used—any other source is dangerous.

A pollen reserve of two solid combs or its equivalent should be kept in each colony for winter. Queens generally commence brood rearing about six weeks before pollen is available from the early spring flowers. As late winter brood rearing appears to be a normal function of colonies, the development of brood at that time would be limited by the amount of pollen present. Experiments covering the last two years have clearly demonstrated the value of a pollen reserve for wintering.

The third factor, protection, is also of importance, and details as to how this may be provided appears in Bulletin No. 681, "Wintering Bees in Canada" which may be obtained by writing to Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Pack your colonies and feed them well in advance of the cold weather as they should not be disturbed after the winter cluster has been formed.

A good windbreak, natural or artificial, on at least the north and west sides of the apiary also affords protection from cold driving winds.

Prepare your bees with the utmost care as every colony will be needed to supply the demand for honey and wax next year.

THE BEEKEEPERS' WINTER PROGRAMME

Now that the bees are placed in their winter quarters and require little or no attention for the next five months, the beekeeper should have plenty of time to put his equipment in shape and make plans for the 1944 season.

As the cost of apary equipment has increased considerably during the past few years, conservation of all available supplies is an important consideration, says C. A. Jamieson, Bee Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Drawn comb is the beekeepers' most valuable asset and unless properly stored may be severely damaged by mice or wax moth. Sort all combs carefully, discarding those that are broken or deformed and store the good ones in supers. Stack these supers with an inverted hive cover beneath and another one on top of each pile to keep out the

AIRWOMEN'S BARRACK-LIFE AROUSES DOMESTIC INSTINCT

Feminine traits soon adorn bare quarters at air stations
By Cpl. Edith H. Motley

Nothing it would seem, so much arouses the domestic instinct in women as living in barracks. (Mr. Ripley will please note.) Members of the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. are quartered in large, well lighted rooms each furnished with two tables, two chairs, ten to twenty double decker beds, twenty to forty small painted cupboards and twenty to forty hanger bars. That's enough for comfort and efficiency, but it's not enough for airwomen.

First thing they do is put photographs on top of the lockers—families, fiancés, friends—it gives the place a sociable look. Then they ask for permission (and on most stations, get it) to turn grocery boxes into little dressing tables, lining them up with wall paper, dressing them up with cretonne skirts or frilly petticoats of muslin or dimity. The same or matching cretonne is used to make curtains for the hanger bars and ambition sometimes goes so far as to include drapes for the windows. The barrackroom becomes a warm, living livable place.

All these "extras" come out of a barrackroom fund to which the girls contribute a nickel or a dime a week. From the fund, too, come extra furnishings for the Recreation Room—airwomen pay for all their little luxuries out of their own pockets. They plan their expenditures months in advance. (You know there isn't a better purchasing agent in the country than a house-minded female.) One barrackroom is saving to buy a radio, another is waiting patiently for LAW Smith's leave because she's bringing back a small one from home.

So cheery have some barrackrooms become that time and again, airwomen are heard to say, "Going out? Oh, no, I'm staying HOME tonight."

In more ways than one, a women's barrack today is very like a girl's school or convent. Rules and regulations are many and strictly enforced. The women's barracks aren't those which Kipling wrote about in his "Barrack Room Ballads," of course.

mice, if larvae of the wax moth are present fumigate the combs with Paradichlorobenzene, using two tablespoonsfuls to every five supers.

Extractors, uncapping knives, storage tanks and other metal equipment are becoming difficult to replace, and should be cleaned and repaired if necessary. If any additional equipment is required for the next year's may be assembled and ready for use before the rush of work next spring.

It is a good plan to order package bees now so as to avoid delay and possibly disappointment next spring. The demand for packages was exceptionally heavy this past year, and many late orders could not be filled.

The importance of attending as many beekeepers' meetings as possible throughout the winter months will prove helpful. If there is not a local association in your locality, you might consider organizing one. Stronger organizations and co-operation will be needed to meet the problems that will arise in the future.

An evening "at home" in W.D. barracks of the R.C.A.F. is indistinguishable from an evening at boarding school. The conversation, whether serious or hilarious, is more mature, but just as innocuous.

Some airwomen will be studying for their trade tests or for one of the numerous courses offered through the educational services. Some of them will be around the corner in the laundry scrubbing away at their shirts; the ironing room, too, will be humming with busy little bees. Some of the girls will be writing letters home—communication is never neglected—and some W.D.s have an amazing number of correspondents. Some will be polishing shoes and buttons or darning and mending. Some of the super-domesticated of our little battle-maidens will be knitting, sewing or doing needlepoint.

There may come a day when "barrack-bred" will be a term embracing "industrious," "domesticated," "quiet" and "companionable." Impossible, you say? Not at all. Ask any airwoman.

HONOURABLE C. D. HOWE, Minister

THE TOWERMAN

This sketch by Grant Macdonald shows Henry Gardner, Canadian National Railway's towerman operating the levers which route the many trains of war materials through one of Canada's huge railway yards. It is one of the series of drawings by Mr. Macdonald graphically depicting the big job being performed by Canada's railway workers in moving the immense wartime traffic. Last year the National System handled 71,545,237 tons of freight and the amount moved this year will be considerably greater. If the freight, passenger, and work equipment of the National System, together with locomotives, could be set out buffer to buffer, in a single line of track they would form a train 1,100 miles long.

British Folk are Happy Under All Circumstances

Reading, Eng.—Nobody, I am sure, will be in the least surprised to read that more things have been happening to me, I do 'buy it' don't I?

It is this homeless, haphazard sort of existence one has to lead, of course—at everybody's mercy. Anything at all may happen and, when it does, one is involved. I am out of my old lodgings, illness suddenly descended on the house and my room was wanted for a nurse. A nice predicament indeed in a town filled to the brim with people.

Incidentally, the house is still empty, the invalid in a nursing home and the nurse still somewhere up in the clouds; but that is neither here nor there. One week in which to pack, scrounge together everything I have in the world and find somewhere to live. Small wonder that I lost nearly seven pounds in weight!

Something, definitely, had to be done. I stepped over the suitcases, saucepans, piles of papers and other effects and, hopping on the trusty Grace, cycled out into the country. It was good to get away from the muddle for an hour or two; and perhaps there might be some corner for me in a cottage somewhere. Wild of eye, I covered the two miles between the old pitch and the home of a friend who, I thought, might be able to suggest somebody in her village. She lives in a beautiful old house that is really an ancient farm enlarged and improved. It is of the Tudor period, with timbered walls and lovely melow roofs. The gardens are broad and wonderfully laid out; there are old oak beams and flagged paths and yew hedges; a place to dream about. A World of Welcome

She came out to meet me; charming and pretty in her bright summer frock, with a smile of welcome that did me a world of good, there and then. I felt a bit diffident about spilling my rather sordid troubles, as you can imagine, but I'm a great believer in broadcasting one's needs, for you never know. Maybe, somewhere at hand, there was a kind old soul who'd make room for me. I didn't expect any real comfort, of course; my imagination didn't venture that far.

She excused herself and went into conference with the housekeeper. Back they came, both smiling. The solution had been found, they said. Would I care to come to them till I was able to fix myself up? So here I am, practically in Paradise. I have a pretty bedroom looking out over a picturesque courtyard with woods beyond. I have space to move, quiet to write, good food to eat and, most important of all, kindness all round me. Never did a catastrophe work out better in this world!

The housekeeper, bless her heart, has taken the wanderer to her bosom. She is large and smiling and very-very clever at her job. Sometimes there is a tap on my door, and there she is, smiling at me over a cup of something 'to keep me going'. There are four friendly cats and a hen which has allowed itself to be tamed; there are lovely skies overhead and elm-trees with the proverbial rooks. I almost forget what a brick villa looks like.

Vastly Impressed
There is also the butler who—I am sure—is vastly impressed by my appetite. He is indulgent about it, of course, but it is probably some time since he saw anything resembling it. Sometimes his eye twinkles at me, and it is a very kind and friendly eye, despite its thinly veiled astonishment at the quantity I manage to put away. But if he only knew the joy of having meals without the trouble of getting them for oneself!

We all live economically, of course, as does every thinking person now;

but a good cook and housekeeper can work wonders with our rations and our home-grown vegetables. Every day I cycle in to the allotment and bring back my quota. And every day there are appetizing things on the table, thanks to this ingenuity. The lost pounds have returned, needless to remark. I sleep like a top in this grand air, and wake every morning full of gratitude to these lovely and understanding people. I haven't been able to find anything else yet, but I am told not to hurry. Yet how one would hate to take any unfair advantage of such friends! Well, here's hoping that Fate will do me another good turn—but she will never come up to this in her future efforts, of course.

Around in Coal Van

I don't imagine they will very quickly forget my arrival. Transport is a frantic problem for us now; but my pal the doctor leapt to the rescue by putting in a word for me with one of his patients—a coal merchant. So, when the day came, I rolled up here in a coal van, my luggage piled at the back. I do not suppose any visitor has ever arrived here before with this particular distinction.

There was much mirth about it. I emerged from my seat on a clean sack, looking none the worse. But there was one other little episode which impressed me, and that was when the coal merchant, carrying a trunk into my room, admired the roses which had been placed there to welcome me. My hostess, without a word, had a bunch brought for him, so the coal van went home again smelling like a garden. How many people, I wonder, would have thought of that sweet and gracious action? I think her whole life is like that; full of thought for others.

Of course the war has left its mark even out here among the rolling fields and the woods. The gardens are running wild and the once-smooth lawns get only an occasional mowing; most of the staff bedrooms are empty and the hot-water system has been suspended. We do most of our own washing and all sorts of other economies are the vogue. There are tomato plants where tulips once made a blaze of color, and huge beds have been given up to sunflowers for pheasants' food. There is no waste, no nonsense, no humbug about appearances. Nobody means about it; nobody makes a fuss. (Quite frankly, I have come across far more waste, fuss and various bits of nonsense in those brick villas!)

Plenty To Kick About

The allotment is being as fractious as ever, and the Gardening Partner, now in much better health, finds plenty to complain about. The marrows and turnips, he declares, have been bewitched, and he has a strong suspicion that somebody has put 'the fluence' on the beans. "Never mind!" I say soothingly. "We have less weeds than anybody else. See how tidy it all is!"

"Weeds won't grow here of course," he answers, determined to be difficult. "It isn't good enough for 'em." Yes, he is certainly much better and steadily getting back to his old form.

Yesterday evening I went out with my knife and gloves and did some local hedge-trimming. That is where one notices such a tremendous difference nowadays with the absence of labor. Huge brambles are shooting out several feet onto the highway and if one is cycling at night, constitute a real danger. There is nobody to put such things right—except the ordinary citizen, of course. One sees folk doing all sorts of things like that, but it fell to me—after a good bit of dodging—to tackle this job. All the available hands are working on arable land, I imagine, for never have I seen larger patches of cultivation in this country. We are so accustomed to small fields over here that the change is rather startling. You, of course, would not think any of them big, but a field of wheat stretching away into the middle-distance is rather a novelty to us.

Strange Changes

The clothes coupon system, too, is making strange changes. People with trunks of furs and frocks have to cudgel their brains on the stocking question. To lend somebody your poupon-book is to make a friend for life, and a couple of new handkerchiefs is a gift of no mean order, I assure you. I have just seen a little girl looking very delicious in a wee frock and coat made out of an old curtain of mine, and there is a strong line in house-skirts that were once old winter coats. The strange part of it is that I have not met anybody shabby, even after these years of war and wangling. A friend of mine has a fur coat for which she gave $125 five years ago; she has just had it valued for insurance purposes and its value is now $600!

Our bicycles are guarded with our lives, for decent ones are simply unobtainable: I mean bicycles with adjustable gears and so on. Cycle thieves—alas!—are not doing too badly in these times, so we take extra care. One hears people say: "Oh, I can get you a bicycle, I know where they're to be had—hastily adding: "Not black market of course." But when it comes down to brass tacks, it's just so much Big Talk.

The old-time bicycles are just a pipe-dream. Everywhere one meets unlikely looking people riding the queerest machines of the "sit-up-and-beg" variety—with handlebars some where under their chins. Folks have dug them out from heaven knows where and they're having to work in their dotage. Grace has chic, I must admit; when I see her against these antediluvian monsters. Pony-carts are on the roads again, and I have just had a ride in a governess-car of the 1890 period, or thereabouts, with the woman-driver as smart as paint. Yes, we're managing all right.

EDGERTON

The 116th Victory Wheel draw at the Drug Store resulted in a win for Mrs. W. Nowak with No. 3.

The $100 Victory Loan Bond Raffle gave Mr. W. P. Gordon the bond.

Mrs. Fred McBride took her son Claire to Wainwright Monday for medical treatment and left him in the hospital for a few days.

Mrs. Fred Ramsay is again assisting in the Bank.

The Edgerton and District Board of Trade met at the Hotel Tuesday Nov. 2nd, and among the business transacted was the appointment of a Delegation to attend the meeting of the Wainwright Municipal District on November 11th, with the request that something be done in the very near future to the road connecting the Village with Highway No. 14.

Efforts are being made so that the skating rink may be made ready for a good season of skating for the children. It was the opinion of the meeting that a curfew affecting all children under a certain age being off the streets by 9 o'clock at night be advisable. It is probable that a bylaw to this effect will be enacted soon.

To conserve coal it has been decided to discontinue the regular weekly dances sponsored by the Board of Trade.

Mr. and Mrs. John Challenger left Thursday for Wainwright where they intend making their home for the winter.

A. Shore was shipping out cattle Thursday.

The Edgerton School Cadets have now got their new uniforms and look very smart in them.

The McCafferty U.F.W.A. served lunches in the Co-op Store Saturday.

The members of the United Church W.A. are putting on a Chicken Supper next Saturday, November 13th, commencing at 6 p.m. in the basement of St. Mary's church. This is a good chance to get caught up on rations.

The teachers all left Thursday for Wainwright to attend a convention, consequently the children had a holiday Friday.

The film 'Hit the Road' was shown in the theatre last Saturday.

Mrs. Loe Wilson returned Tuesday from hospital in Edmonton where she underwent an operation.

This District is within $4,000 of attaining the objective of $63,000 set for us. There are still a few days left for those who have not yet taken any bonds, or who wish to take another.

WHITE CLOUD

We're very sorry to hear that Mr. E. Knott is in the hospital, and we wish him a speedy recovery.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who so kindly helped with our chicken supper and dance to make it a success.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sharpe visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Treffry last week end, before returning to their new home south of Nan-tan.

Mr. Henry Tondou has been a bit under the weather, but we hear he is much better now.

The five things most wanted as gifts by Canadian soldiers overseas, according to an officer just returned, are: Cigarettes, toilet soap (rationed in England), shaving soap, chocolates and candies and more cigarettes.

THE COURSE TO FOLLOW

Grain congestion is very severe at the present time. The small initial wheat delivery quota amply demonstrates the truth of this statement.

In face of such conditions it is difficult for farmers to direct their limited quotas to the elevators of their choice, which in most cases is the Pool Elevators. The Pool Elevator system acknowledges that the problem is a complicated one. To tell the farmers to deliver all their grain to Pool elevators when space is so limited is simply not common sense.

But the Wheat Pool does suggest that where farmers have any selection in the matter the Pool elevators should get the preference. Furthermore, if you are compelled by unavoidable circumstances to deliver your grain elsewhere, do not forget that you should return to Pool elevators whenever the situation clears up and the congestion is relieved.

BREAD CRUMBS TURN INTO DELECTABLE COOKIES

The modern youngster won't believe you if you say that crumbs make the hair curl. But the modern mother gets rid of her crumbs just the same. She rolls them into crumbs, combines them with sweetened condensed milk, and in less than 15 minutes, has a jarful of such delectable cookies that the children gobble them up as fast as they can get them. Crumbs, or any other stale bread, for that matter, should be crumbled with a rolling pin or put through a food grinder to make crumbs, and kept in a covered jar until needed.
